

The Touchstone

Back to Companions

Background

You had a boring life before the Doctor. Safe, predictable, occasionally fun... but boring, boring, BORING. Then the Doctor picked you out of everyone in London, and propelled you face-first into a grand and exciting adventure beyond your wildest dreams. You were his anchor, keeping his grief from consuming him. You made a difference to him and everyone you touched.

And then he left you. Later, you learned he died. Bastard.

He gave it almost infinite range and the ability to reach through time and space back to your home. Unfortunately, you accidentally ran it through the washing machine after he died. It still has some pretty useful and cool tweaks, however. For instance, the horoscopes it gets become eerily accurate. The text never matches any other source. It seems crazy, but it's almost as if something is using the mobile to help you. No matter where you may be in time and space, it knows what house the moon is in back home. Once per session, ask the MC what its advice is and roll +Vortex. On a 10+, you confidently decipher the cryptic wisdom it passes to you, and take 2 hold. Tell the MC what you think the horoscope means. On a 7-9, the MC gives you advice on what it means, and take 1 hold. For the rest of the session, spend your hold 1 for 1 to reroll when you Tempt Fate. On a 6 or less, you completely miss the point of what it said. You gain all the confidence of a full hit, but you in fact have no special protection. Naturally, your interpretation of the advice can be scaled back by the MC if it's too broad. Additionally, the MC should exploit your misunderstanding when making a hard move. Horoscope:  You get the stuff and trappings appropriate to a lower middle-class lifestyle.
