

Low Murmurs

By BcAugust (original post)

It's rather background at first, the noise from your next door neighbors. A few low murmers, occasional grunts. Sure, you've seen them walk out sometimes before it, but maybe they left a tv on. And it's too... soft to complain.

Of course, it also never stops. Waking up at two in the morning, you can hear it still... though it's more like low words, spoken slowly, and the rythems seem off.... just enough to make you pull the covers over your head and go back to sleep.

On the other hand, if you put your ears to the wall, you think you can understand the words... but that would be a bad idea.
