

My Brother's Sister

By i3ullseye (original post)

You might see a fairly attractive woman with a deep and alluring voice in the hotel bar, and she talks of being there to meet her brother. Or you might see a young and handsome man in the lobby reading the latest business paper, who says he is there to see his sister. The near identical look to their features paints them as twins.... or are they?

YOu never see both together, and maybe one or two masculine features pop up on the female. Maybe a hint of female perfume, or another tell tale sign. But if you see the female in the bar, you can actually walk into the lobby and there is the male..... but walking back to the bar the female is nowhere to be seen.
