

The Semi-Retired Occultist

By Major Tom (original post)

This gentleman, who appears to be in his 70s, tends to keep to himself for the most part. If any of the hotel's other residents are questioned about him, they know only that he's considered something of an expert on the occult, and that he used to have a partner who was a medical doctor of some sort. They also know that the doctor apparently died under somewhat peculiar circumstances several years ago.

There are also times that, whenever he's in his apartment, anyone passing by occasionally senses the presence of something both hellish and unearthly. The only other thing that is known about him is how he signs his name in the hotel register: W. Sebastian.
