

The Lady Jane

From a previous space opera campaign and the sole effort of one player-

Description

Despite the fact she is based on a scout ship, the Lady Jane is actually a modified passenger vessel. With the addition of weapons, better damage control systems, faster drives, and more cargo space, she is now a multi-purpose vessel, although she can still function quite adequately as a liner.

Because she is based on a liner, casual scans will reveal her as such, especially if the person scanning has some familiarity with human vessels. Of course, the Lady Jane is the only vessel of her type painted that particular colour, so anyone who's ever heard of Captain Samuel West will recognise her.
